Michele Satta discovered his love for Syrah in the Rhône at Guigal, and this particular monovarietal expression is a nice tribute. The straightforwardly named 2015 Syrah treats you to notes of cured meat and spice, along with smoke, cherry and dark fruit. There is a sweetness and fullness to it, and overall this is an open and accessible wine. I liked the dusty mineral notes on the close.

Michele Satta has created a new wine called Marianova. A 50-50 blend of Sangiovese and Syrah, the wine represents a blend of grapes that is unique for the appellation and underlines the fierce spirit of independence that is encapsulated in all of Satta's wines. Marianova debuted with the 2015
